Cardiff MRCS Course: Basic Sciences and Clinical Application for MRCS A

Basic sciences, such as anatomy, physiology, pathology, and microbiology, are the principal components for developing a strong foundation in surgical training and for the understanding of its clinically applied aspects, such as surgical anatomy and surgical pathology, critical care physiology and applied surgical sciences, and principles of surgery. As such, these subjects form an integral part of the MRCS A exam.

This intensive four-day course will provide the attendee with an overview of basic physiological principles, consolidate the attendee's core and applied surgical knowledge in anatomy and relevant pathology, and give a focused revision of pertinent topics as tested in the exam. The emphasis will be on key principles and concepts, with focus and guidance on answering single best answer questions. The course will take into consideration the recent changes to the MRCS A exam, with more emphasis on the clinical application of basic sciences, especially anatomy.

The course is divided into four distinct, but related, days. On Days 1 and 2, the emphasis will primarily be on basic and surgically applied anatomy and related pathology. This will include relevant embryology, surface anatomy and osteology in the head and neck, upper limb, thorax, abdomen, pelvis and lower limb. The autonomic nervous system and pertinent histological findings of all common cancers will also be discussed. Days 3 and 4 will predominately cover basic pathology, system-specific pathology, applied surgical sciences, burns, trauma, microbiology, pharmacology, genetics, statistics, trauma, vascular surgery, breast surgery, endocrine surgery, upper GI and lower GI surgery, and the principles of surgery in general.

It is strongly advised that delegates attend all four days of the course to obtain the full benefit. However, if a delegate is particularly strong in the topics taught on any of the four days, then he/she has the option of attending individual days of the course.

Royal Stoke University Hospital, Stoke-on-Trent, UK

Amazing course! Very good resources. Prof was very kind and ensured we have everything we could need to prepare for the exam.

CR
Royal Sussex County Hospital, Brighton, UK

Excellent 4 day course, covered lots of content relevant to the part A exam. Professor Enoch was fluent in anatomy and interacted with students throughout.

AK
Poole Hospital, Poole, UK

Excellent course, Prof Enoch is outstanding, exceptionally knowledgeable, patient and clear.

PC
University Hospital Southampton, Southampton, UK

Outstanding from start to finish. Would recommend to everyone, well worth the money!

CR
Royal Sussex County Hospital, Brighton, UK

Excellent course and teaching.

RP
Bristol Royal infirmary, Bristol, UK

Overall right level of intensity and depth; main takeaway lessons were how to approach questions and being put into the examination way of thought.
