Welcome and Invitation Letter

Dear Friends,

In 1990, we began our journey together as young medical students. We arrived with ambition, uncertainty, hope and many long nights ahead of us. None of us could have fully imagined where life would take us over the next thirty six years.

Today, we stand in very different places across the world. Many of us are clinicians, teachers, academics, leaders, professionals and business people. Some have raised families. Some have travelled widely. All of us have experienced success, disappointment, growth and change. Time has shaped us, but it has not erased the bond of where we began.

That is why this 36 year reunion matters.

This moment may not come again in quite the same way. Reunions held between 35 and 40 years after graduation are often the most meaningful. By this stage, careers have matured and life has given us perspective. We are still active, able to travel and able to fully participate. Five years from now, circumstances may be different for many of us.

There are no plans for another reunion of this scale in the near future. Realistically, this is likely to be the most complete gathering of our cohort.

This reunion is not simply about meeting again. It is about recognising how far we have come, together and individually. It is about sharing stories, reflecting on the journey and expressing gratitude for friendships that have quietly lasted decades.

It is social, certainly. There will be laughter, memories and conversations. But it is not only social. There will also be thoughtful discussion shaped by decades of professional and personal experience. That balance between warmth and reflection gives the gathering its depth.

Thirty six years of shared history cannot be reduced to a date on a calendar. It is anatomy dissection rooms. It is giving proxy in classrooms. It is postings at Wenlock and Bejai hospitals. It is SPM rotations in Ullal and Moodbidri. It is the stress of exams, the frustration of power cuts and the relief of finishing vivas. It is late night meals at Bombay Lucky, Hao Hao and Moti Mahal, and ice cream at Ideal. It is Nandagiri, RNE, Sturrock,

, Priya and Falnir. It is UTSAV and residential trips to Kodaikanal and Mahabaleshwar.

Since 1996, we have scattered across continents. We have built lives in different corners of the world. To bring that entire arc of shared history back into one space, even briefly, is something rare.

If you are hesitating, consider this gently. Time will pass regardless. Later often does not gather everyone again. This is not simply a holiday or a dinner. It is a once in a generation opportunity to sit across from people who shaped some of the most formative years of your life.

If even a small part of you wants to be there, that is reason enough.

Commit. Show up. Be present.

Thirty six years will not come again.

We sincerely look forward to welcoming you and seeing you once more.

With kind regards,
